

This Sunday we have John's account of the cleansing of the temple. Verses 13 - 17 tell of cleansing of the temple by Jesus; while verses 18 - 25, consist of a discussion between Jesus and the Jews. Three questions come to mind:

What are the temples that people turn into market places today?
Why is Jesus cleansing these temples?
How is he doing it?

John's approach is different from that of the synoptic gospels. They stress the dishonesty of the vendors who came to do business but end up turning the place into "a den of thieves". John does not speak of this problem at all. His complaint is not against those who profit from their illegal vending.

The fault of the vendors is that they have turned the Father's house into a market, no longer a place of sharing and transparency but one where what a person is worth gets primary importance. They forget what the temple was really about; they see nothing beyond what they have set themselves to achieve.

The person who is intent on cleansing these temples is Jesus. We cannot afford to see him as some kind of trouble maker or disturber of the peace - we must recognise and celebrate him for who he is. This is often difficult or even impossible for those of us who are intimately involved in this kind of trade.

Lord, there was a time when we had made our relationship with you a matter of rewards for good works.
We complained that you let us suffer,
that you left our prayers unanswered,
that others we considered less virtuous than ourselves were more blessed than we were.
But all the time it was Jesus cleansing your house,
driving away the baggage of the market place, so that we could come to you in humble adoration and trust.

CAREGIVERS: We are one of the HSE preferred and approved providers. We work very closely with HSE in Sligo, Leitrim & Roscommon to assist older people throughout the county that rely on home care packages from HSE to help them live more independently in their own homes. In order to ensure there are carers in every area of each of the counties we services, we currently are looking for CAREGIVERS in and around your area and perhaps some of your parishioners are looking to work within the care indus-
