

Will of God.

Lord let me come this year,
And see and hear and sing
The mystery of God's self-emptying.
God's will, is no grandiose thing
It is the little service that we bring
The open eye, the open ear –
To see, to hear
The insignificant and small
The heart of love to care, to share
A brother's need
That smile that takes the strife from dreary daily life.
God's will
It is the light of love, warmth
That lets the flower of faith
From tiny seed – tight bud – burst forth
Glorious in its simplicity.
There as a babe he lies – and cries
This tiny thing
Sent by the will of God
To let men know by way of manger and cross
God gives – Emptying himself upon the earth.
Man grasps and makes a name – seeks fame.
God gives himself away and takes the lowest place.
Takes on himself the helpless that every love must know.
God's will for men? Self-emptying.
Pour out all their love.
And to bestow
Healing of heart and mind ... sight to the blind.
Let me come near this coming year
To see and hear and sing,
The mystery of God's self-emptying.
